

When To Call Your Baby's Provider — After Circumcision

After your baby boy has been circumcised, be sure to call your pediatrician or take your baby directly to the emergency room, if you notice any of the following:

- Foul odor
- Fresh bleeding that doesn't stop within a few minutes
- The penis appears discolored and swollen
- Pus drains from around the incision
- Fever
- Not urinating, or
- You're unable to comfort your baby
